European Summer School - Improving services for aging drug user

19 – 21 June 2018 in Frankfurt, Germany

The Consortium of the Erasmus + Project Betrad (Better treatment for ageing drug user) is pleased to announce the launch of a 3 day training event for health workers working in or planning to establish services for the population of elderly drug user.

WHY?

Because of demographic developments of the aging population in almost all countries of the European Union, social and health structures are in an ongoing process of adapting adequate responses to this challenge. Dependency of psychoactive substances, is still associated with young people, while, the proportion of older chronic, problematic drug users have increased significantly over the last decades. Older drug users are likely to suffer from the negative social and health consequences of decades of drug use. Services have to adapt their capacities and awareness to this increasing phenomenon.

WHO?

The training is organised by Integrative Drogenhilfe e.V. and is conducted by various trainers who are specialized in the topic.
